In the Last Stages.
THE KING of the tariff,
the sorry old tariff,
the dog-eared old tariff we formerly knew; The so macerated and disfigured, its features we recognize now are quite few; they've hacked it and cracked it and blacked it and raked it, they've cut off its feet, amputated its head; they've chopped it and lopped it and mopped it and dropped it till such a sad spectacle never was seen as the ragged old tariff, the disfigured old tariff, the disheveled tariff that's seen better days; they've maimed it and lamed it, and shamed it and tamed it, till all that is left would its parents smash; let us weep for the tariff, oh, how will we fare if the much abused tariff is in the grave laid? this bunch of Democratic cravats, spasmatics, has mangled our tariff beyond human aid!

Jakeway Fails to Get Away With Denver Robbery and Is Neatly Trapped by Local Police Chief.

Wilbur Jakeway, who stole two saddles worth about $30 each from his employer, G. R. Smith of Denver, and who shipped the saddles to himself here via Wells-Fargo, addressed to "W. Johnson," was arrested this morning at the Wells-Fargo express office by Policeman Pablo Lujan when he appeared to receipt for the saddles. Jakeway immediately confessed the theft and is being held in the local jail pending the arrival of an officer who has left Denver to bring the thief back to justice.
Chief of Police McMillin received a wire from Chief Felix O'Neill of Denver, warning him to watch out for the saddle thief, and the chief stationed Lujan at the express office to watch for his man. Jakeway was promptly apprehended when he appeared and asked for the saddles. He intended to reship the saddles to Texas. Jakeway said his pal, John Deason, whom the chief was also instructed to arrest, got hurt trying to beat his way on a train out of Denver and was left at La Junta. The saddles were shipped from Denver June 21.

H. P. WANNER HAS OPENED A NEW
CURIO STORE

Well Known Albuquerque
Young Man, Formerly Government Engineer, Has Attractive Place on West Central.

The many local friends of H. P.
Wanner will be interested in the announcement that he has during the past week opened an attractive curio store at 104 West Central avenue, in the Sturges hotel building.

Mr. Wanner has installed comprehensive stocks of Navajo rugs, Indian pottery of various kinds, Mexican drawnwork, serapes, and gold and silver filigree work, Chimayo blankets and all manner of south-western curio art goods. Because of his thorough familiarity with the Indian country, gained through eight years of service as an engineer in the U. S.
Indian irrigation service, Mr. Wan-ner is unusually well informed concerning Indian wares of various kinds, and a considerable portion of his stock is made up of a personal collection assembled by him during his travels as an engineer.
